The World Trade Center (WTC) Mumbai has informed Indian companies and industry stakeholders about four major agro-industrial exhibitions scheduled to be held in Argentina in 2026, describing them as important platforms for technology exchange, business development and international partnerships in the agriculture and food sectors.

In an official statement issued by WTC Mumbai, Priya Pansare, Director – Trade & Investment Promotion, said these exhibitions offer strong opportunities for Indian companies to explore the Latin American market and expand their footprint in the agri and food segments.

According to the statement, the exhibition calendar will open with Expoagro 2026 from March 10 to 13 at San Nicolás in the Province of Buenos Aires. Celebrating its 20th edition, Expoagro has emerged as one of Latin America's most influential agricultural trade fairs, showcasing the latest in farm machinery, inputs and services. The previous edition attracted over 2.2 lakh visitors and around 700 exhibitors, along with large international delegations.

The next major event, A Todo Láctea, will be held from May 12 to 14 at San Francisco in Córdoba province. Focused on the dairy value chain, the exhibition will feature more than 200 commercial stands and a comprehensive technical programme covering genetics, reproduction, sustainability and dairy processing.

Agroactiva 2026 will follow from June 3 to 6 at Armstrong in Santa Fe. Considered Argentina's largest open-air agro-industrial exhibition, it is expected to bring together over 900 exhibitors offering solutions in agricultural machinery, inputs, financial services, livestock and production technologies.

The calendar will conclude with the Rural Exhibition of Palermo from July 16 to 26 in Buenos Aires, bringing together over 400 exhibitors from across the agro-industrial spectrum.

WTC Mumbai has invited interested Indian companies to register, after which the organisers will coordinate further participation details.
